QW INTEGRATION AND COMMUNICATION MODULE

Integration made easy

QuestaWeb Inc. has released an addition to its TradeMaster QW product line, a suite of Web-native software applications that facilitate the timely and compliant movement of goods from origin to destination across any border in the world. The QW Integration and Communication Module provides a cross-format integration interface that automates and connects business processes across the supply chain. It will interface with customer enterprise resource planning systems, external compliance databases, and supplier and partner business applications.

The QW Integration and Communication Module is part of the eMessengerQW communications infrastructure within TradeMasterQW. The interface features separate format, validation, and application layers. This multilayered construction enables the cross-format data platform to access, reconcile, clean, and prepare data for business intelligence manipulation, analysis, and delivery.
