Yamaha selects QuestaWeb for US Import Management

Yamaha Corporation of America, a provider of consumer electronic products and musical instruments, has selected QuestaWeb's QW Importer system to ensure US Customs compliance and to accelerate product shipments to customers. (7/24/2002)

Implementation will include integration with SAP/R3 and Oracle 11i.

"QuestaWeb's QW Importer solution will allow our company to have more visibility and control over our US import operations," said Walter Wood, Vice-President of Operations at Yamaha. "QuestaWeb's software will help us improve our business processes, as well as keep us in compliance with the ever changing Customs rules and regulations."

Headquartered in Buena Park, California, Yamaha Corporation of America is a wholly owned subsidiary of Yamaha Corporation located in Japan. Yamaha Corporation is one of the world's leading providers of consumer electronics and premier musical instruments. It has an extensive network of dealers, to whom it ships both finished goods as well as replacement parts. Yamaha Corporation of America's ability to perform the import management functions required to get its products to dealers is critical to shorter cycle times and to improve customer service.

In anticipation of the implementation of SAP at Yamaha Corporation in Japan, Yamaha Corporation of America selected QuestaWeb as the provider of the comprehensive regulatory and import compliance system as the company finalizes its preparations for the interface and processing changes. Yamaha recognizes QuestaWeb as the reliable global technology company that provides an integrated suite of cross-border solutions. The company will use QuestaWeb's US Import, HTS Classifier, Document Engine, and Internet Tracking modules to ensure US Customs compliance, calculate Laid-in Costs, and to manage its import operations.
