

QuestaWeb Was Accepted in the Oracle® PartnerNetwork (OPN)

Membership in OPN provides QuestaWeb with additional resources to develop and deploy Internet-based import export software solutions to corporations trading globally.

Westfield, NJ (PRWEB) January 24, 2005 -- QuestaWeb, Inc., a provider of integrated import and export management software, today announced it is a new member in the Oracle® PartnerNetwork (OPN), providing QuestaWeb the opportunity to leverage Oracle's partner community and resources to strengthen the commitment in uniformly providing Internet-native solutions to users of Oracle's application servers and databases.

"With its widespread adoption in enterprises across our key vertical markets, Oracle is clearly one of the leading technology and application partners for QuestaWeb," said Vlad Yakovlev, Director of Product Development at QuestaWeb. "We are glad to be joining Oracle's partner program that enables us to enhance our global trade and logistics management applications set for enterprise supply chain logistics computing."

This new status as an Oracle PartnerNetwork member is an important step in QuestaWeb's company history. QuestaWeb will now have online access to Oracle development for new product information as well as early previews of new technology to optimize business expansion strategies and provide higher quality of service to their users.
